

City of Charleston Sign Inventory, 1986
The Charleston Archive, Charleston County Public Library
Compiled by Celeste Wiley and Nicholas Butler, Manager, 2008

Collation: 5.0 linear feet

Description: This collection consists of letters, forms, and photographs of business signs collected by the City of Charleston in 1986.

Historical Note: The City of Charleston originally established an ordinance (section 54–9) on business signage in 1975. In September of 1985, the city amended the ordinance to better define the types of signs allowed. By doing so, the city hoped to “eliminate confusing, distracting, or unsafe signs, assure the efficient transfer of information; and, enhance the visual environment of the City of Charleston.”¹

In order to insure that business signs within the city limits conformed to the new regulations, the City Council ordered an inventory of all eligible signs. All licensed business owners received letters and forms that required them to report the number and size of signs on their buildings. If the owner reported that he/she did have signs, they were also required to send in photos of them.

Most likely due to the lack of clarity in the instructions for the forms, many are filled out incorrectly. In addition, many of the photos that should be included in various files have been lost. The following tables list the existing files alphabetically by address and alphabetically by business name. Columns highlighted in blue indicate that there are photos missing from the file.
